Urbana Corporation Announces Blue Ocean Technologies, LLC Exciting Trading Innovation

TORONTO, October 14, 2025 — Urbana Corporation (“Urbana”) (TSX and CSE: URB, URB.A), is excited to announce that one of its investee companies, Blue Ocean Technologies, LLC (“BOT”), recently announced its intent to pursue integration with the forthcoming tokenized National Market System (NMS) equities solution. This development positions Blue Ocean ATS as the first alternative trading system to support the trading of tokenized U.S. equities as the industry enters its next phase of modernization. Currently, Urbana is the largest shareholder in BOT with an ownership interest of approximately 38.8%.

Brian Hyndman, CEO of BOT commented, "Our core mission has always been to expand access to U.S. equities for global investors through technological advancements. Integrating with forthcoming tokenized settlement infrastructure represents the next frontier in our journey. Tokenization has the potential to complete the 24/7/365 market, closing the final gap in an increasingly connected global trading ecosystem. This new development aligns with our commitment to innovation in blockchain-enabled, regulated market infrastructure."

BOT's announcement follows their recent integration as a data oracle operator on the Pyth Network, where it currently publishes real-time overnight U.S. equities pricing to blockchain-based financial applications.

As part of this initiative, BOT will continue its ongoing dialogues with regulators, clearing organizations, market participants, and other industry stakeholders to align its tokenized trading initiative with the same principles that define the National Market System today: fairness, transparency, and investor protection.
